

Medical Exams

Your medical exams will take place in 3 steps. Before planning anything, you will need to have received the letter stating when you will have your interview.

Take an appointment with an approved doctor (list is enclosed with the interview letter, as well as all information concerning which shots you will need). Your doctor will then direct you to a place for the blood test and the X-rays.

First visit to the doctor: bring all your paperwork (including the letter for the interview) and proof that you took care of the vaccinations required. The doctor will give you the necessary documents to go get the blood test and X-rays done.

Second visit to the doctor: The doctor checks the results and fills in the paperwork that the embassy requires for your visa application to be approved.

I had to travel to Paris for this purpose only, so I had all the medical exams and the interview within 2 days. I would advise that you plan a little more time if possible, so that you do not get stressed if something goes slightly wrong.
